

MUST WEIGH ICE BEFORE SELLING

—JUDGE O'NEAL

Lays Down His Reading of the Law and Imposes
Fine on Dealer.

It is illegal to sell ice in the District of Columbia without previously weighing it on scales duly tested by the Sealer of Weights and Measures.

This was the ruling today in the District branch of the Police Court by Judge O'Neal in answer to the contention of Attorney F. Walter Brandenburg, representing Julian E. Reed, that it is proper and legal to sell ice by the piece instead of by weight. The judge fined Mr. Reed $15.

Mr. Brandenburg said, after the ruling, that he would probably take the case to the Court of Appeals. According to the testimony of Assistant Sealer of Weights and Measures Howe, Julian E. Reed was in charge of the disposal of ice from the platforms of the manufacturing plant of the Purdy Ice Company yesterday. Mr. Howe saw him direct the laborers on the platform to sell ice without weighing it.

Saw Unweighed Ice Sold.
"The ice," said Mr. Howe, "was lying on the platform in blocks. I saw people come up and buy it. It was given to them without having been weighed. One of the customers who received ice in this fashion was a woman who had with her a little boy with an express wagon. "Do you know this ice had never been weighed?" queried Mr. Brandenburg. "I do," answered Mr. Howe. "In that case," said Mr. Brandenburg, "we admit the truth of your statements. We contend, however, that the weighing of ice is not necessary under the wording of the statute. "It is our custom up there to sell ice by the piece. That is, we hand out to the customers a 5-cent or a 10-cent piece."

"That may be true," rejoined Mr. Howe, "but I have seen some ice weighed on that platform and some not weighed." "That's true," argued Mr. Brandenburg, "but the only meaning of the statute is that customers shall get full weight. If they do that, it is all right, whether the ice is sold to them by the piece or by the pound."

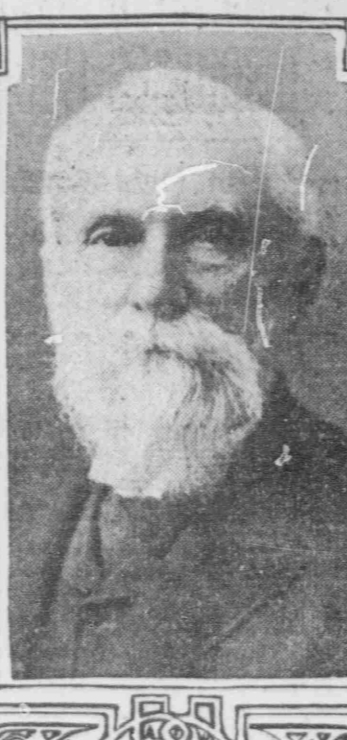

Must Be Weighed.
To this Prosecuting Attorney Pugh replied that it was not a matter of weight, but was a fact that the law prohibited the selling of ice without weighing it. Mr. Brandenburg contended that the law did not cover the case.

"In my opinion," said Judge O'Neal, "the law does cover the offense, and I will impose a fine of $15." Mr. Reed, who was accused of omitting the formality of weighing the ice, had been held on $25 collateral, which action was in line with the declaration of Judge Hissell that he would discontinue the practice of allowing these delinquent ice men to get off with such small collateral as $5.

GIGANTIC PASTOR FALLS DEAD IN HIS PULPIT

CUMBERLAND, Md., July 20.—The Rev. Thomas N. Alderton, aged fifty, of Great Capon, W. Va., dropped dead from apoplexy while preaching in the pulpit at Greenwell Baptist Church, at Reesville, W. Va. He stood nearly seven feet and weighed more than 300 pounds. He is survived by his wife and two children. He had been a preacher for twenty-five years.

GOES TO HIS LONG HOME

THE REV. DEXTER A. SNOW,
Who Was Buried at Rock Creek Today.

SAVE TROUBLE.
There are gains for all our losses. There's a cure for every pain; At the same time, friends, from eating Apples green we'd best refrain.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF REV. D. A. SNOW

Venerable Pastor Laid at Rest in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Funeral services for the Rev. Dexter A. Snow were held this afternoon in his home, 72 Eighth street northwest. The Rev. Frederick D. Power, pastor of the Vermont Avenue Christian Church, and the Rev. E. B. Bagby, pastor of the Ninth street Christian Church, conducted the services. Burial was made in Rock Creek Cemetery. Mr. Snow died yesterday.

Mr. Snow was a native of Virginia and began his studies for the ministry when very young. He entered the services of the church when quite a young man and continued actively until several years ago when he became blind. While this retarded him to a material extent, he continued the work and the little church which he built in Wytheville, Va., and the benefit of his services and support. Mr. Snow is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Catherine Ammen, and two children, Dr. B. Alice Snow and C. A. Snow, the well known Washington patent attorney. The pallbearers at the funeral today were C. W. Shelton, Thomas Norwood, C. N. Spencer, Capt. W. P. Pierce, J. Edgar Smith and Mr. Edgingfield.

RAPID TRANSIT.
Oh, hitch your wagons to a star,
As Emerson suggested,
And thus avoid the trolley car
When traffic is congested.

BALLET POSTERS ON CHURCH DOOR

Dr. Parkhurst's Building
Used as Theatrical Billboard.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Walking through Madison Square yesterday morning a member of Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst's congregation let his gaze rest upon the front of the historic edifice at Madison Avenue and Twenty-fourth street. He stopped short and rubbed his eyes. Then he took another look and an expression of mingled horror and incredulity spread over his countenance. Half a hundred other persons had gathered on the sidewalk. There was no horror indicated in their faces; they were laughing.

Over the Madison Avenue entrance emissaries from the Theatrical Trust had hoisted during the previous night a huge bill board upon which, in red, blue and yellow letters, each two feet high, the public was informed that two eccentric comedians, assisted by a bevy of superlatively agile and attractive young women, would amuse nightly at a Broadway playhouse. Posters ten feet square, bearing the portraits of the comedians, and other posters, equally large, on which the agile young women were pictured in diaphanous stage costumes, were plastered over the entire surface of the front wall.

An hour later men were sent for, and they placed long ladders against the church and tore down the big bill board over the entrance and painted the others black.
